This two-story frame house is three bays wide by one bay deep and faces east. It is clad in diamond-patterned asphalt shingles, with rectangular asphalt shingles covering its gable roof. On the east front, the entrance is offset to the right of center, with a 1/1 sash window on either side. A one-story, half-hipped porch spans the facade, featuring turned posts. Two 1/1 sash light the second story, aligned above the first-floor windows. The centrally-located brick chimney has a corbeled cap. A one-story gabled extension projects to the south.

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

The placement of the door and chimney suggest that this house was originally constructed as a duplex, like the neighboring building (AA 757). It represents one of the simplest forms of late-19th-century vernacular dwellings.
